He is an IAF Certified Professional Facilitator and co-founded the Facilitators Network Singapore.

Services offered by FNS

In enhancing the competencies of facilitators in the region, FNS offers the following services:

Bi-monthly Facilitators' Forums, Annual Singapore Facilitators' Conferences and when scheduled, the IAF Asia Facilitators' Conference in Singapore. We provide practice opportunities for facilitators as volunteer facilitators for community projects and commercial events on pro-bono basis. We collaborate with experienced local and international facilitators to deliver the following workshops on a surplus-sharing model:

Foundational Facilitation Workshop (FFW)

This workshop introduces the IAF CPF competencies and serves as an entry level workshop for aspiring facilitators.

Specialized Facilitation Workshop (SFW)

Is a series of independent workshops that focuses on specific IAF CPF competencies for facilitators.

Facilitation Skills for Professionals (FSP)

Is a series of independent workshops that introduce facilitative practices for leaders, managers, lecturers, trainers, instructors, teachers, parents to enhance their professional effectiveness.

Premier Facilitation Workshop (PFW)

Is a series of independent workshops that are conducted by established and published masters in the field of facilitation.

Complementary Development Programs (CDP)

Is a series of independent workshops to build and maintain a base of professional knowledge in management and organizational systems.

Foundational Facilitation Workshop (FFW)

Facilitation Service by Volunteer Facilitators (VFs)

In enhancing the learning and development of facilitators in Singapore and in promoting facilitation as a profession in Singapore, FNS provides complimentary facilitation service to Voluntary Welfare Organisations (VWOs) and Non-Profit Organizations (NPOs) through our informal network of volunteer facilitators.

The VWOs and NPOs benefit from the facilitation service offered without the need to pay commercial fees required by professional facilitators. The volunteer facilitators are graduates from FNS's high quality Foundational Facilitation Workshop (FFW) - they have been trained by Certified Professional Facilitators (CPFs) - and would benefit from the opportunities to practice and hone their facilitation skills. These field experiences are important to volunteer facilitators seeking the IAF Certified Professional Facilitator certification. To ensure the quality of the facilitation services provided by the volunteer facilitators, they will be coached and guided by experienced facilitators or Certified Professional Facilitators (CPFs).

Group Process Facilitator

A Facilitator is a content neutral individual who uses effective processes to enable a group to make effective decisions and accomplish its task while supporting a collaborative and respectful environment that encourages full participation and helps groups overcome barriers to reaching their goal.

Why Facilitation Skills Are Valued in Today's World

Group Process Facilitation is a rapidly expanding worldwide profession that plays a vital role in the workings of business, government and communities across the globe. There is a growing demand for people who can help groups build consensus, maximize participation and move toward action.

Doing more with less... in less time

Facilitators help people and organizations determine clear solutions to organizational pressures. Professional facilitators show how to save time and money by engaging diverse groups of people and moving them toward results. Facilitators excel in their ability to help groups solve problems before they become crises helping everyone to reach goals and realistic solutions. It has been demonstrated that group problem solving processes enable more effective and efficient solutions that are more readily implemented in less time. This needs to address the questions of how it saves time. Many of my clients would say, "My people do what I tell them to do. Why should I involve them in any decision making process?"

Connectivity and Diversity

As virtual, diverse and/or cross-functional teams and groups become increasingly common in organizations, facilitators help streamline participative group processes for strategy, plan development and implementation. Facilitation also leverages and builds on existing synergies.

Desire for Clear Solutions to Communications Problems

How often have you heard an organizational problem labeled as a 'communication problem'? Facilitators help improve communications inside and outside organizations and augment the quality of teamwork, participation and management of diverse groups of stakeholders. They provide the clear channels within individuals as groups to 'make individuals be heard'.

Leadership Demands Flexibility

Professional facilitators support the shift to a participative management style. Facilitators know how to apply specific tools and techniques for project and process management results. They also help meetings and group be more productive. The Facilitator "brings people together." Often people are in the room but do not "get together." Facilitation allows people to be heard. It provides opportunities for participants to build on each other's ideas and experiences. Most often, a well-facilitated meeting allows participants to leave not as a stranger but with a sense of being a part of a group (virtually or actually, as the case may be). This links with socialization, growth, education and communication.

The Foundational Facilitation Workshop (FFW); conceived & designed in 2005 by the Facilitators Network Singapore (FNS), is delivered & quality assured to very exacting standards, and continuously improved on by FNS.

Foundational Facilitation Workshop (FFW)

What past participants have said about FFW:

This is one of the best courses I have attended in recent years!

The hands-on experience and practical facilitation sessions are awesome.

I really appreciate the intensive feedback from peers and coaches that I received during the workshop.

This workshop has expedited my professional development many fold – many of my facilitation blind spots were opened up - thank you very much for running this course. I strongly recommend it to anyone who wants to hone their facilitation competencies.

I am now very confident to facilitate a group towards a business outcome.

Made many friends - the three days really bonds us as we have to work as a team and co-facilitate under compressed time and dynamic simulated situations.

I have been inspired to go for my professional facilitator certification!
